

Bio

Ava Valianti is a 16 year-old Massachusetts-based indie pop singer-songwriter on a clear upward trajectory. At just 16, she's earned major regional and international award nominations and multiple wins, racked up airplay on 300+ radio stations, shared stages with nationally recognized artists, while selling out her own headlining shows across New England and New York City.

Her debut EP petunias captures the tension between vulnerability and confidence, pairing diaristic lyrics with expansive, hook-driven production. Deep Fuchsia, Sophomore Slump, Birthday Cake, and her latest release The Conversation, mark a bold new chapter as Ava leans into louder indie pop-rock textures and coming-of-age themes rooted in ambition, insecurity, and emotional resilience. Ava's work feels lived-in, intentional, and ahead of its time - an artist already operating beyond her years and quickly becoming one to watch.

As a Top 3 Finalist for American Songwriter's Road Ready Talent Contest she performed live at the finals in Nashville at The Basement East in March, placing 2nd as 1st Runner-Up.
